LAS VEGAS - Whann Technology Group announced it has launched an updated mobile simulcast app for the iPhone and iPad. The company said the upgrades include greater quality, performance and reliability for the live bidding app.

It is now available in the Apple app store under WTG Simulcast. Whann Tech also has a WTG Simulcast App for Apple TV available in the app store.

It can enable auction screaming and real-time bidding and is complementary to the WTG Simulcast desktop app. The company said in a news release that the Apple TV Lane Summary app can enable auctions to keep customers updated on the status of the lanes, wherever they may be at the auction — in in the lanes, in the cafeteria, etc.

Whann Tech said it will have several other applications available in coming weeks, including WTG Simulcast for iWatch and the WTG Simulcast Android version.
